

LOUISE GEORGE KITTAKA

Consultant

Louise George Kittaka is a consultant with Alpine International specializing in cross-cultural training. Her language skills and professional background perfectly suit her for this role. Louise draws on her extensive experience in the fields of communications, education and training to help clients.

Louise's career in Japan began as a technical writer, editing product manual material for Ryobi, a world-renowned manufacturer of power tools. Later, she honed her skills as an editor at Japan's premier educational publishing firm, Benesse Corporation. Louise currently writes and edits English educational materials for a wide variety of markets, ranging from pre-schoolers through to adults. She also translates and proofreads documents for various government documents, and teaches English to special needs teens at a Japanese public high school.

Louise has a special affinity for children and teenagers, and enjoys helping families make the most of their cross-cultural adventures in Japan.

- M.A. in Intercultural Studies, State University of New York, USA
- B.A. in Japanese and Economics, University of Waikato, New Zealand

Languages: English, Japanese

